2.1 Introduction

- 2.1.1 The Client named the Appendix to “ITC” will select a firm among those invited to submit a proposal, in accordance with the method of selection detailed in the appendix. The method of selection shall be as indicated by the procuring entity in the Appendix.
- 2.1.2 The consultants are invited to submit a separate Technical Proposal and a Financial Proposal, or a Technical Proposal only, as specified in the Appendix “ITC” for consulting services required for the assignment named in the said Appendix. A Technical Proposal only may be submitted in assignments where the Client intends to apply standard conditions of engagement and scales of fees for professional services which are regulated as is the case with Building and Civil Engineering Consulting services. In such a case the highest ranked firm of the technical proposal shall be invited to negotiate a contract on the basis of scale fees. The proposal will be the basis for Contract negotiations and ultimately for a signed Contract with the selected firm.
- 2.1.3 The consultants must familiarize themselves with local conditions and take them into account in preparing their proposals. To obtain firsthand information on the assignment and on the local conditions, consultants are encouraged to liaise with the Client regarding any information that they may require before submitting a proposal and to attend a pre-proposal conference where applicable. Consultants should contact the officials named in the Appendix “ITC” to arrange for any visit or to obtain additional information on the pre-proposal conference. Consultants should ensure that these officials are advised of the visit in adequate time to allow them to make appropriate arrangements.
- 2.1.4 The Procuring entity will provide the inputs specified in the Appendix “ITC”, assist the firm in obtaining licenses and permits needed to carry out the services and make available relevant project data and reports.
- 2.1.5 Please note that (i) the costs of preparing the proposal and of negotiating the Contract, including any visit to the Client are not reimbursable as a direct cost of the assignment; and (ii) the Client is not bound to accept any of the proposals submitted.
- 2.1.6 The procuring entity’s employees, committee members, board members and their relative (spouse and children) are not eligible to participate.
- 2.1.7 The procuring entity shall allow the tenderer to review the tender document free of charge before purchase.

2.2 Clarification and Amendment of RFP Documents

Any request for clarification must be sent in writing by paper mail, cable, telex, facsimile or electronic mail to the Client's address indicated in the Appendix "ITC". The Client will respond by cable, telex, facsimile or electronic mail to such requests and will send written copies of the response (including an explanation of the query but without identifying the source of inquiry) to all invited consultants who intend to submit proposals.
- 2.2.2 At any time before the submission of proposals, the Client may for any reason, whether at his own initiative or in response to a clarification requested by an invited firm, amend the RFP. Any amendment shall be issued in writing through addenda. Addenda shall be sent by mail, cable, telex or facsimile to all invited consultants and will be binding on them. The Client may at his discretion extend the deadline for the submission of proposals.

The combined technical and financial score, S , is calculated as follows: - $S = S_t \times T \% + S_f \times P \%$. - 2.9.3 Unless there are exceptional reasons, the financial negotiations will not involve the remuneration rates for staff (no breakdown of fees).
- 2.9.4 Having selected the firm on the basis of, among other things, an evaluation of proposed key professional staff, the Client expects to negotiate a contract on the basis of the experts named in the proposal. Before contract negotiations, the Client will require assurances that the experts will be actually available. The Client will not consider substitutions during contract negotiations unless both parties agree that undue delay in the selection process makes such substitution unavoidable or that such changes are critical to meet the objectives of the assignment. If this is not the case and if it is established that key staff were offered in the proposal without confirming their availability, the firm may be disqualified.

TERMS OF REFERENCE FOR BASELINE STUDY FOR KCEP-CRAL PROGRAMME:

1.0 Programme Background

The KCEP-CRAL is an expansion to the ASALs of the Kenya Cereal Enhancement Programme (KCEP) which became effective in April 2014 through a partnership between the Government of Kenya, the European Union, and IFAD. The overall development objectives of the KCEP are to contribute to national food security and smallholder income generation by supporting farmers to increase the productivity and profitability of key cereal commodities - maize, sorghum, and millet, and associated pulses. KCEP support is focused on farmers in medium- and high-potential production areas of the country. In line with the Government's priorities, KCEP-CRAL will expand this support to smallholder farmers in the ASALs.

1.1 Programme rationale

Even in a bumper harvest year, Kenya is a food-deficit country, importing up to 20% of its annual cereal requirements. Improvement in production of the main cereal commodities - maize, sorghum, and millet; and associated pulses is constrained by limited adoption of improved crop technologies and practices such as improved seed varieties, adequate fertilizer use, and soil and water management, good agricultural practices including conservation agriculture, access to timely agro-climatic information, processing and storage. Although almost two thirds of total grain production in Kenya comes from the high- and medium-potential areas, the ASALs are also an important producing area and account for 30% of cereals production and 54% of pulses produced in the country. Indeed, the semi-arid areas have a comparative advantage in production of pulses, accounting for 99% of production of pigeon peas, 95% of green grams and 93% of cowpeas as well as in the production of millet (60%). Semi-arid areas are also important in production of sorghum, accounting for 48% of total production, 37% of beans and 26% of maize.

KCEP-CRAL also follows a value chain approach to support ASAL smallholder farmer graduation to market-oriented/commercial farming, addressing key constraints in production, post-harvest management, processing, and marketing in target commodity value chains. Programme support will, however, take into account the socio-economic and biophysical characteristics of the ASALs: higher level of food insecurity; lower and less reliable rainfall; higher vulnerability to climate change; more fragile ecosystems; and household risk mitigation strategies based on diversified production systems. Accordingly, the Programme approach is based on a strategic partnership between the European Union and three Rome-Based Agencies (RBA): World Food Program, (WFP), IFAD and Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), building on their comparative advantages to support GoK in farmer graduation from food insecurity to market-oriented farming, including Good Agricultural Practices, resilience, and sustainable NRM. The Programme approach also encompasses the National Policy on developing ASALs which recognizes the diversified livelihood coping strategy as key in the dry lands where smallholder farmers grow different crops with varied tolerance to drought and keep livestock as an insurance against crop failure.

1.2 Scaling up what works

KCEP builds on important lessons learned from the Government of Kenya's NAAIAP Programme which began in 2007. Under this programme, smallholder farmers were provided with a one year subsidy voucher covering agricultural inputs - fertilizers and certified seeds - and extension services to raise their farm productivity and graduate them to commercial agriculture. Within a year smallholder farmers recorded a noticeable increase in productivity allowing them to generate a surplus for marketing and income generation as a result of selling the surplus. Yet, sustainability remained a challenge. Farmers received input package for one season after which they were expected to graduate to commercial farming. However, farmers remained dependent on free inputs to maintain increase in yield. The programme faced significant delays in payment of agro-dealers based on cashing paper vouchers, affecting their capacity to procure inputs in a timely manner for farmer use. There was insufficient attention to post-harvest management to reduce losses, marketing and access to financial services. These are important lessons that KCEP builds on to enhance sustainability.

1.3 Programme area and target group

The Programme area will cover thirteen target counties of which five are in the Western region; Bungoma, Kakamega, Nakuru, Nandi and Trans Nzoia; five in the Eastern region; Embu, Kitui, Tharaka-Nithi, Makueni and Machakos and three in the Coastal region; Kilifi, Kwale and Taita Taveta. However, the KCEP-CRAL target eight counties which were selected using these key criteria: (i) agro-ecological and economic potential; (ii) poverty incidence; (iii) population density; (iv) target commodity contributing to household income/food security and representing the best option the poor have for market participation; (v) geographical concentration to maximize impact. Within these counties, 44 sub-counties have been selected using the same criteria and specific wards will be selected based on the same process.

The consolidated total outreach of the Programme is 185,000 smallholder farmers of which 120,000 are in the ASALs target Counties. A total of 140,000 smallholders' farmers (120,000 in ASALs) will be supported through the e-voucher scheme and financial literacy training. Special focus will be on women-headed households and youth given the constraints they face in accessing agricultural services and inputs. The Programme will also target county governments and communities to empower them to manage their natural resources more sustainably and consensually, and build their resilience to climate change through community investments.

A secondary target group of the Programme will be stakeholders in the targeted value chains who will facilitate smallholders' access to enhanced agricultural services, namely agro-dealers, private extension services, buyers, processors, and lead farmers providing support services to smallholders.

1.4 The Programme Goal and Objectives

The overall development goal of the KCEP-CRAL is to contribute to the reduction of rural poverty and food insecurity of smallholders in the ASALs by developing their economic potential while improving their natural resources management capacity and resilience to climate change in an increasingly fragile ecosystem. This development goal will be pursued through two specific objectives:

- The graduation of 150, 000 smallholder farmers (95,000 in ASALs) to commercially-oriented, climate-resilient agricultural practices through improvements in productivity, post-production management practices and market linkages for targeted value chains; and
- The empowerment of eight County Governments and communities to sustainably and consensually manage their natural resources and to build their resilience to climate change.

1.5 Programme Components

Component 1: Cereal productivity enhancement and Climate-resilient/climate-smart productivity enhancement and NRM. Through an e-voucher platform giving smallholder farmers access to improved agricultural inputs and technical packages, the Programme will support the farmers engaged in targeted value chains to enhance productivity in view of commercialization. Activities under this component will support farmers to identify and undertake appropriate, productive and climate-resilient crop enterprises suited to the ASALs and improve as well as stabilize productivity through adoption of Good Agricultural Practices incorporating Conservation Agriculture and associated better water conservation practices. There will be support to targeted counties and wards to plan adaptation strategies, adopt sustainable NRM practices, and build resilience to climate change.

Component 2: Post-Harvest Management and Market Linkages aims at supporting farmers to capitalize productivity gains arising from investments made under Component 1, by promoting improved on-farm grain-handling and management, access to storage and warehouse receipt systems, increasing smallholders' access to markets, and building their capacities to sell their produce at more favourable terms and prices.

Component 3: Financial Services is designed to link farmers to financial services to boost yields and income generation for re-investment in agriculture, and build the capacity of value chain stakeholders, including the youth, to engage profitably in provision of agricultural services through improved access to financial services.

Component 4: Programme Management is designed to facilitate the overall coordination and day to day management of the Programme. Programme Steering Committee (PSC) is responsible for oversight of the Programme and providing policy guidance to Programme implementation. A County Programme Coordinating Committee (CPCC) will provide guidance to Programme implementation within each county. Programme Coordinating Unit (PCU) is responsible for day-to-day management of the programme, supported by the partner's desk officers. The Programme PCU is responsible for overall coordination and management of KCEP CRAL implementation, including: (i) financial and administrative management of programme resources in line with the grant agreement; (ii) planning of Programme activities and preparation of Annual Work Plan and Budget (AWPB); (iii) procurement and contracting of Programme-related services and supplies, and monitoring of contracts; (iv) coordination of Programme partners; (v) monitoring and evaluation (M&E) and knowledge management (KM); (v) preparation of progress reports.

2.0 Purpose and objectives of the Consultancy

The purpose of the consultancy is to effectively and efficiently administer a baseline survey for the Kenya Cereal Enhancement Programme – Climate Resilient Agricultural Livelihood Window in close collaboration with the Government, Programme Coordination Unit and IFAD. The collected and analysed data/information will be critical in further documenting and monitoring the achievement of the Programme's objectives and expected outcomes as per its logical framework. The consultancy for this baseline survey will serve two objectives:

- ii) collecting and analysing programme monitoring indicators (outputs and outcomes) and
- ii) Collecting and analysing impact assessment indicators.

2.1 Scope of Work

The scope of work of the consulting firm will cover, but not limited to high quality data collection in the eight Programme counties (Embu, Kilifi, Kitui, Kwale, Machakos, Makueni, Taita Taveta and Tharaka-Nithi), collation, analysis, and interpretation as well as production of informative and comprehensive baseline survey report. Interested firm are encouraged to propose innovative approaches on data collection with preference given to using mobile phones, tablets or other electronic devices/applications for timely indicator tracking. The consulting firm should ensure that the application to be developed for data collection must be able to accommodate complex structure of agricultural and value chain related surveys. For instance, detailed geolocation information (geo-coordinates, elevation, etc.) of households, farm plots, community natural resource base/land cover use, communities surveyed should be also collected during the survey.

As the baseline survey will collect and analyze impact assessment indicators to facilitate subsequent impact assessments of KCEP-CRAL, the consulting firm will be expected to develop a roll-out plan to be aligned with the phasing and sequencing of the Programme interventions in close collaboration with the PCU and IFAD.

In order to accomplish the assignment, the firm will be expected to undertake the following tasks;

1. Reviewing the Programme log-frame indicators at the output, outcome and impact levels and establish the type and form of relevant baseline data to be collected including the mainstreamed ASAP climate change related indicators in close consultation with PCU and IFAD. The consulting firm will ensure that the collected data and indicators are disaggregated by gender and youth to the extent possible
2. Developing a roll-out plan in alignment with the phasing and sequencing with interventions to facilitate the sampling process at the appropriate survey units in the target counties in consultation with the PCU and IFAD;

3. Designing data collection instruments that are capable in recording output, outcome and impact indicators as well as household socio-economic characteristics disaggregated by gender and youth. The consulting firm will not be limited to only the RIMS questionnaire but will require to closely consult the PCU and IFAD when designing these instruments;
4. Reviewing survey areas and defining an appropriate sample, including a control group. Based on the total expected number of beneficiaries being targeted the Programme, the sample size for the baseline survey must be at least 2,100 households from the target counties. Exact sampling methodology and the final sample size of this survey will be developed in consultation between PCU and IFAD,
5. Recruiting and training enumerators and supervisors to conduct the survey. The survey team should include women and youth so as to ensure access to both male and female respondents. The enumerators must be fluent in the local language of their assigned areas/locations;
6. Preparing a detailed methodology and an enumerator manual including definition of key terms, how to ask questions in local languages, how to record responses, sampling method, etc. to ensure the employed method is replicable in future surveys,
7. Fielding the pre-test of the baseline survey tools in the field with at least 20 households (both in the treatment and control areas) before the data collection begins to fine-tune the survey tools including organize the logistics and provide support for managing and conducting enumerator training and the pre-testing of the survey,
8. Developing and implementing a household sampling strategy including working local informants to compile lists of producer households in each sampling unit that meet Programme targeting criteria, randomly sampling from these lists as per the computed sample size and developing and communicating a survey schedule to enable the effective mobilization of households during the survey;
9. Implementing, supervising and quality management of the field data collection with a clear strategy for ensuring high quality data linked to the innovative applications used for data collecting
10. Collating collected data into an appropriate form including data cleaning and validation,
11. Assess women's empowerment based on the data gathered using the Women's Empowerment in Agriculture Index (WEAI) and using this index to measure the extent of women's engagement in the five domains as a baseline for subsequent monitoring of WEAI;
12. Undertaking descriptive data analysis and preparing draft reports. The final analyzes will be validated by PCU and IFAD,
13. Coordinating with PCU and IFAD during the course of the survey and incorporating any changes requested,
14. Presenting the baseline survey results (always disaggregated by gender and youth) to stakeholders validation workshop,
